CGM TV NETWORK EXPANDS STREAMING DISTRIBUTION TO MILLIONS OF VIZIO & WALMART ONN SMART TVS

Houston, TX – CGM TV Network announces it is now officially streaming on all Vizio Smart TV models (2016 to present) and Walmart Onn Smart TVs powered by the Vizio operating system. The integration is currently live, allowing users of compatible Vizio and Walmart Onn devices to immediately access and stream CGM TV Network's premium content straight from their Smart TVs.

This strategic rollout seamlessly integrates CGM TV Network into tens of millions of households globally, bolstering the platform's massive global reach of over 1.1 billion households via smart TV and digital endpoints. Through this expansion, the City of Houston and HTV programming can now be viewed on these Smart TV brands via the CGM TV Network. The platform continues to support public access and community engagement programming for city governments.

Unlike traditional platforms that rely on opaque algorithms and high barriers to entry, CGM TV Network provides an infrastructure designed for sustainable creator growth. The platform empowers content owners to launch their own branded shows, streaming channels, or custom direct-to-consumer TV apps.

"Securing distribution across the Vizio and Walmart Onn ecosystems is a monumental step forward for our network and the content owners we champion," said Centrell Reed, CEO of CReed Global Media & CGM TV Network. "We are dedicated to giving creators their power back. By providing placement across over now 15 platforms, we allow producers to monetize their work without subscriber thresholds and maintain complete ownership of their content."
